

Students Say...

1

Students report a high sense of equality, inclusiveness and diversity in their schools.

two-thirds of respondents feel students treat each other with respect at their school

89%

report they know how they learn best

1 in 5

indicated they do not feel comfortable asking their teacher for help

3

Students report their teacher knows them as learners.

70% said their teachers understand the way they learn and use different learning strategies

4 in 10 indicated their teachers do not ask them about their lives outside of school

4

Students generally express a high level of overall well-being.

In the month prior to the survey 7 in 10 said their overall well-being, was "good" or "excellent".

With respect to making healthy life choices, secondary students consider themselves less healthy than their younger counterparts, get less sleep, less physical activity, less healthy food and more screentime.

Among the secondary students, 1 in 5 say they never get a good night's sleep.

5

Friendships are strong at HDSB schools.

Students see themselves as empathetic and helpful to others, and collaborating well with others.

Student engagement is important.

87% of students agree their school promotes opportunities for all students to get involved (e.g. clubs, teams, student leadership activities, etc.).

Note: Due to differences in response rates between elementary and secondary panels, these data disproportionately reflect a majority of elementary responses (elementary n=9079; secondary n=1936).
